Methodology

- Heading Forward is a dynamic four-level secondary course (plus a Starter level). The course thoroughly integrates practice of the four macro skills – reading, listening, speaking and writing – with work on vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation.
- Language is presented through interesting topics. This is followed by practice, which begins with meaningful controlled exercises and gradually develops into freer, personalised activities.
- Language input is provided through interesting reading texts and listening activities.
- Clear speaking and writing models are given to students as extra guidance for producing their own work.
- Language for everyday situations is presented and practised in a special section in every unit.
- Students are provided with a variety of material to consolidate what they have learnt and practised in the classroom both in the Student’s Book and Workbook and through the interactive activities for students in the website.
- The Workbook also comes with Speaking and Writing Practice Booklets to further practise the productive skills.
- Mixed ability in the classroom is catered for by a wide selection of resource material for teachers: photocopiable worksheets, tests and exams at three levels of difficulty in the website. The Teacher’s Book also includes suggestions on how to adapt the material in the Student’s Book to suit individual needs.
Teaching with Heading Forward

Student’s Book

Each unit starts with a vocabulary double-page spread. This presents eight to twelve words or expressions related to the topic of the unit. Practice activities, including listening and repeating, answering questions, completing and writing sentences or paragraphs, help these words and expressions to become part of the students’ active vocabulary.

The following double-page spread starts with a warmer to activate students’ knowledge of the topic and to generate interest. Students then read a text, with the option of listening on the Audio CD. The texts reflect a variety of text types that students could meet outside the classroom, and they exemplify some of the new vocabulary.

Activities then teach students how to read by practising strategies such as predicting content from titles and visual clues. Carefully-staged exercises teach students to read for general meaning and then for more specific information.

The Student’s Book is divided into a Welcome unit, nine core units, three review units and a reference section. At the starter and elementary levels, the Welcome unit revises basic language that students may know from their primary-level education or a beginner’s secondary course. At pre-intermediate, intermediate and upper-intermediate levels, it revises the language taught in the previous level. The core units are presented in blocks of three units, followed by a review unit. There is finally a unit-by-unit review section to further consolidate all the contents studied.

Core units
These activities are followed by grammar structures that students have been exposed to in the reading text and exercises integrated into other skills such as reading or writing.

Graded exercises check students' understanding and provide practice. This practice is personalised and meaningful, while at the same time develops students' accuracy. A full explanation of each grammar point is included in the Grammar Reference at the back of the book.

The next double-page spread helps develop the speaking skill. It presents functional language that students will need in specific situations, such as helping a tourist or talking on the phone. Useful expressions are introduced through short dialogues. Students practise these expressions to build confidence before creating and practising their own dialogues. The Pronunciation exercises practise recognising and producing important sounds in English and develop an awareness of stress, rhythm and intonation. The final related activities give students an opportunity to try using the new language. These include a fun speaking task, which develops students' fluency in the new grammar points. All the expressions from every unit are listed at the back of the book, in the Useful phrases section. More practice is provided in the Speaking Practice Booklet accompanying the Workbook.
Writing is broken down into clear steps and thoroughly practised. After a speaking warmer, students read a model text, which recycles grammar and vocabulary from the unit. They then focus on an area of their writing which helps them to make it more effective. As with speaking, all the expressions from every unit are listed at the back of the book in the Useful phrases section.

Students can still further practise this skill in the Writing Practice Booklet which also accompanies the Workbook.

21st Century skills are the main focus of the last double-page spread. These pages present cross-curricular topics of special interest to the age group. Students practise their reading skills and extend their knowledge of a range of subjects.

Comprehension exercises are followed by a research activity in which students are encouraged to investigate the topic in greater depth through learning links.

21st Century skills are practised throughout the book and especially in this section. These are some essential skills and knowledge that today's students need to become successful and productive citizens in the 21st century.

They include:

- Learning and innovation skills such as problem-solving, creativity, visual literacy, scientific and numerical literacy, cross-disciplinary thinking, decision-making and learner autonomy, among others.

- Information, media and technology skills such as information literacy, ITC literacy, accessing and analysing information, learning in digital networks through digital means such as social networking, technological awareness and simulation, contribution to the development of social and intellectual capital, etc.

- Working skills such organisation, time management, negotiating, communication and cooperation, team-building and working, initiative and self-direction.

- Social skills like citizenship, cultural awareness, health and environmental literacy, leadership, responsibility, etc.

Review units
The review units present a new topic so that students have a context in which to revise and consolidate the language covered in the previous three units.

The first page revises vocabulary. In the following pages reading, listening and speaking tasks provide integrated grammar practice.

The section ends with a short project linked to the topic of the unit. Students work in pairs or groups to produce a piece of work such as a poster or class magazine. The project provides another opportunity for writing practice.

The final page of the review units features a fun game or quiz that puts into practice grammar and vocabulary learnt throughout the three previous units. At the starter level, each review unit ends with a popular song for students to enjoy.

Reference Review

There is also a review page per unit. This one-page review includes the main vocabulary and grammar studied in the unit. Students can use this to revise before their exams.

Grammar Reference

This reference section includes tables, explanations and example sentences.

Word List

This list is ordered by unit, beginning with vocabulary sets, and followed by other difficult words that appear in the unit, which are grouped by parts of speech. Each word appears with its phonetic transcription.
Phonetic symbols

This section lists and exemplifies the vowel, diphthong and consonant sounds of the IPA.

Speaking and Writing Useful Expressions

This section includes all the useful phrases learnt for both skills in each unit. It can be easily cut out along the dotted lines so that students can have it at hand when needed.

Irregular verbs list

A list of all the irregular verbs used in the book and in the following levels of Heading Forward is also provided. It can also be easily cut out along the dotted lines.

Workbook

The Workbook gives students extra practice of the Student’s Book content and encourages independent study. It can also be used in class.
The exercises in the Workbook cover the Student’s Book material in the following order:

- vocabulary and grammar
- listening, speaking and reading
- reading and writing
- self-check

The dictation exercise recycles the vocabulary and grammar from the unit, while the translation exercise helps students become aware of the different ways that concepts can be expressed in different languages. The correction exercise focuses students’ attention on common mistakes.

The unit ends with a ‘Self Check’ page. Students can independently monitor their progress by completing the exercises. You can provide them with the answers if you want or carry out whole-class correction. Photocopiable answers are provided in this Teacher’s Book.

The speaking worksheets (one or two per unit) are provided to help students use the grammar and vocabulary structures covered in a speaking context. The tone of the exercises is intended to be fun and a move away from the more rigid grammatical activities in the Student’s Book and the Workbook.

The activities are designed for pairwork, although several can be adapted for larger groups. Students are provided with a context, model dialogues and a task. The tasks require students to use some of the structures covered in the unit and recycle vocabulary.

Notice that when doing these activities students are not asked to focus on their use of grammar and vocabulary, but rather on the effectiveness of communication.
The Writing Practice Booklet is an extra resource for students to think about their language learning experiences, assess their language skills and collect samples of their work. The activities link directly to the step-by-step writing tasks in each unit in the Student’s Book. Useful expressions and writing guidelines are provided in each unit. There is also a handy ‘Writing guide’ at the end of the booklet for students to consult. By the end of the course, they will have a complete dossier with samples of their written work.

As well as teaching notes, answer keys and audio transcripts for the Student’s Book, the Teacher’s Book provides ideas for extra activities to cater for mixed-ability classes. Warmers, Extension, Reinforcement and Consolidation activities are suggested at different stages in the lesson. ‘Did you know?’ boxes provide teachers with background information on the topic of each unit. At the back of the book is where teachers can find the answer key for the Workbook and photocopiable Self-check sections in case they want to provide students with this tool to encourage autonomous learning.
Audio Material

Digital Resources

Digital resources for both teachers and students are provided in our website: www.richmond.com.ar. They include a Teacher’s and a Student’s area.

The Student’s area includes:
- The Workbook Audio students need to complete the listening and dictation exercises
- Interactive vocabulary and grammar e-practice exercises to revise key concepts while studying each unit. Teachers can ask students to alternate or combine the exercises in the Student’s Book and Workbook with the interactive ones to generate interest and motivation.

The Teacher’s area includes a wealth of downloadable and photocopiable material:
- Mixed-ability worksheets: vocabulary and grammar reinforcement, consolidation and extension exercises for weaker students and fast-finishers.
- Tests: Available at three levels of difficulty to cater for mixed-ability classes:
  - Consolidation: same level as in the Student’s Book
  - Reinforcement: a level below
  - Extension: a level above

There are tests for each unit, two mid-term tests and two end-of-year exams (to cater for re-sits). Tests and exams cover reading, vocabulary, grammar, speaking and writing.

The Teacher’s Audio Material includes two Audio CDs with all the Student’s Book listening activities. The Workbook Audio with all the recordings to complete the listening and dictation exercises is available online on our website.

5 He’s in Turkey

This, that, these, those
• Write this, that, these, those on the board. Ask students to find an example of each word in the texts in exercise 1 on page 22. Ask questions to establish the meaning of the different demonstrative pronouns: Is it singular or plural? Is it near (here) or far (over there)?
• Point to things in the classroom and ask students to say this, these, etc. Work on the pronunciation of th-/ð/, this /ɪs/ and these /ðz/.

Consolidation
In pairs, students ask each other about things in the classroom. They point to things and ask What’s this /that? or What are these /those?
Possessive adjectives

- Write I’m Tom. This is ___ mum. on the board. Ask students what the missing word is. Explain that my is the possessive adjective that relates to I. Look at the grammar table. Ask questions to highlight the differences between English and their own language: Does your language have three forms for the third person singular?
- Highlight that the possessive adjective its is pronounced in the same way as it’s (the contracted form of it is), but the possessive adjective does not have an apostrophe.

I: So, Tony. What's your pet?
T: I haven't got one pet. I've got hundreds.
I: Er… hundreds?
T: Yes, my pets are ants.
I: Um… yes, very unusual. But they aren't real pets. I mean… they don't play.
T: But they run and they work. They're quiet and they aren't messy.
I: Yes, well…, thank you, Tony.
I: And you, Alison. What's your pet?
A: My pet's a dog. His name's Pooch. He's great!
I: Why's that?
A: Well, he's always happy when he sees me. I play with him in the park at weekends. And he's very intelligent. He understands instructions. Listen - come here Pooch.
I: Um… he isn't very friendly.
A: No, he doesn't like people.
I: Yes,… thanks, Alison.
I: And Jay, what's your pet?
J: My roboraptor.
I: Your what?
J: My roboraptor.
I: Is it a real pet?
J: It's a real pet to me. Look, I do this and… it walks and runs. It doesn't eat, but it plays.
I: It's a bit scary.
J: It depends. It can be friendly, but if I do this…
I: Ouch!
J: It bites.

Hi! My name’s Meva. I’m half Bangladeshi and half Scottish because my dad’s from Bangladesh and my mum’s from Scotland. I live in Edinburgh, the capital city of Scotland, but I visit my family in Bangladesh in the summer.

My dad’s family lives in a small village in Sylhet in Bangladesh. Bangladesh has got about sixty thousand villages! Scotland and Bangladesh are very different. For example, in the village we haven’t got cars, telephones or newspapers. We don’t watch TV because we haven’t got electricity. In Edinburgh I watch a lot of TV.

The village in Bangladesh is really small and I know all the people there. I don’t speak Bangla, the official language of Bangladesh, but I can understand it a little.
Bangladesh, but I study it on the Internet. My favourite sport is football. In Bangladesh I play football in a rice paddy. It’s fantastic.

The moment I wake up
Before I put on my make up
I say a little prayer for you
And while combing my hair now
And wondering what dress to wear now
I say a little prayer for you
Chorus
Forever, and ever, you'll stay in my heart
And I will love you
Forever, and ever, we never will part
Oh, how I love you
Together, together, that's how it must be
To live without you
Would only mean heartbreak for me
I run for the bus, dear
Well while riding I think of us dear
I say a little prayer for you
And at work I just take time

And all through my coffee break time
I say a little prayer for you
Chorus
My darling believe me
For me there is no one but you!

I'm a chef so people often ask me about the food that I eat. I like food that's healthy, and simple to make. Breakfast is very important. I always have orange juice and an egg on toast. I don't eat any cereal because I don't like milk. For lunch I make a sandwich. This is my favourite sandwich: take two slices of bread and put some mayonnaise on one. Cut some cold chicken. Then add some lettuce and a tomato. Tomatoes are brilliant. They've got a lot of vitamin A and C. They protect your skin and they're good for your eyes and immune system. Delicious! In the evening, I usually cook for my mum and dad. We don't eat fish because my dad doesn't like it, but we sometimes have meat. We all like pasta – a lot of pasta. It gives you energy and it's great with a salad. Try a spinach, avocado and parmesan cheese salad! It's easy to make and good for your body and your brain.

Answers

Reinforcement
In pairs, students test each other on the school subjects. Student A closes his / her book. Student B says the names of the school subjects in his / her own mother tongue, Student A translates the subjects into English.

Extension
Students make a list of four words they associate with each school subject (e.g. Science - experiments, biology, scientist, results).

2 In pairs, talk about school subjects. Do you like the same subjects?
   - Model the activity by asking a student: What's your favourite subject? Why?
   - In pairs, students talk about school subjects. Do they like the same subjects?
   - Read out the list of subjects in exercise 1. Students put up their hands when you say their favourite subject. Find out which subject is the favourite of most students in the class.

3 Véronique is a French exchange student in the UK. Listen to her conversation with Sandra. Write four subjects she mentions.
   - Explain that Véronique is a French exchange student in the UK. Check students understand the meaning of exchange student (someone who goes to a foreign country to study and learn the language). Do they know any exchange students?
   - Students listen to Véronique's conversation with Sandra and write the four school subjects she mentions.

S - Sandra V – Véronique

S: Are you nervous, Véronique?
V: Nervous? Yes! Today’s my first day in a new school in a new country. What time do classes start?
S: Classes always start at five to nine.
V: Do you study Geography?
S: Of course.
V: I like Geography. How often do you have Geography classes?
S: We have Geography twice a week, on Monday and Wednesday.
V: And Science? How often do you have Science?
S: Three times a week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.
V: Do you like Science?
S: No, I don’t.
V: What’s your favourite subject?
S: ICT.
V: ICT?
S: Information and Communication Technology. I love ICT.
V: Why?
S: Because our teacher, Mr Walker, is excellent.
V: My teachers in France are very strict. Do you study any languages?
S: Of course.
V: What languages can you study at school?
S: We can choose from Arabic, French, German or Mandarin.
V: What languages do you study?
S: Mandarin. Our teacher says that it’s the language of the future.
V: Can I study French today?
S: No.
V: Why not?
S: Because you’re French!

Wednesday. Tomorrow we start our holiday in Wales. People speak two languages in Wales – English and Welsh. The Welsh for Wales is Cymru.

Thursday. Here we’re going to Cardiff, the capital of Wales. Mum’s driving and Dad’s sleeping. Jim’s sitting next to me but you can’t see him. He’s reading a book. I’m not reading. I’m looking at the countryside.

Friday. In this picture we’re visiting the Millennium Stadium. We’re on a guided tour. The stadium’s enormous. It’s got 74,000 seats! They have concerts and rugby games here. Rugby’s the Welsh national sport.

Saturday. Here we’re lying on a beach near Cardiff. Jim’s swimming and Mum’s having an ice cream. The weather in Wales is crazy. One minute it’s sunny and the next minute it’s raining.

Sunday. In this picture we’re climbing a mountain in the Brecon Beacons. It’s incredible. Mum and Dad are singing, but I’m not listening. I’ve got my MP3 player. Tomorrow we’re taking a train to the Snowdonia National Park. More mountains!

Transcript

Hi. Today I’m visiting the home of a very famous person in Miami. Come with me and see if you can guess Who Lives Here?

OK. I’m standing in the living room. There’s a beautiful mirror and a fantastic sound system. The person who lives here has got a lot of shelves with books in English and in Spanish. I think this person likes reading a lot.

Now I’m walking into the kitchen. Very nice. There’s a big cooker next to the window. And there’s a lot of food in the fridge. This person likes melon, lettuce and sushi. There are a lot of music awards on the walls. This award is for best Latin pop artist.

Now I’m in the bedroom. I think this person likes the colour black. The pillows on the bed are black and the carpet is black, too. Now I’m looking in the wardrobe. Hmmm. Our mystery star hasn’t got a lot of clothes. But this person loves music. There’s a CD of the album Insomniac.

So, who is our mystery star? Call us with your answers!

   Hi Sam!
   Marc's got a video camera and he's making a DVD. On the DVD, Julie's friends talk about her and sing 'Happy Birthday'. I'm putting her presents in secret places! Susie and Justin aren't helping. They're sitting on the sofa with Susie's iPod. Typical! At the moment, Julie's shopping with her sister. Then they're coming here at three o'clock. I hope the weather's OK this afternoon. It isn't raining at the moment. Can you come and help? Millie.

Extension
Students read the biographies again and find one fact that was new for them, and one fact that they already knew about each person. In pairs, students compare the facts. Who knew the most about each person?

Was / Were
- Draw a table with two columns on the board. Write Past at the top of the left column and Present at the top of the right column. On a different part of the board, write some key words and phrases from the biographies on page 78, for example: Scarlett - parents not rich, first film / ten, clothes and shopping; Justin - actor and singer on TV show, a lot of restaurants, singer in boy band; Lewis - football, first go-cart / Christmas present. Students decide if this information refers to the past or the present. Then they look back at the biographies and find the corresponding sentences to check.
- Copy the tables of the past of be in the affirmative and negative onto the board but without was and were. Ask students to tell you the different forms of be in the past. Explain that the negative verbs are contracted forms, and that the full forms are was not and were not.

5 Complete these sentences about you. Use was / wasn’t or were / weren’t.
- Students complete the sentences so that they are true for them using was / wasn’t or were / weren’t.

8 Was / Were: questions
• Write this sentence on the board: He’s an actor. Ask students to ask the question. (Is he an actor?) Remind them that, to make a question with be, we invert the subject and the verb. Repeat this process with the same sentence in the past.
• Ask students to tell you the short answers for all subjects and write these in a table on the board. Encourage students to look at the tables of the past of be in the affirmative and negative to help them.
• Write on the board: His father was from Grenada. Where ... ? Ask students to complete the question. Explain that the question word goes in front of the inverted subject and verb.

7 Order the questions. Then answer them.
• Students order the questions. Check students have ordered the questions correctly before they answer them.
• Students answer the questions.

Answers
Answers to these questions may vary
1 Where were you yesterday?
2 What was your favourite subject at primary school?
3 Was your first English teacher a woman?
4 When was your last phone conversation?
5 Who were your friends at primary school?
6 Were you born in a big city?

9 Interview a partner. Use the questions above.
• Students interview their partners using the questions in exercise 8 and any other questions they can think of. Encourage them to look at the example dialogue for help.

Past simple: regular verbs

- Students look at the sentences in exercise 3 on page 82. Ask: Are they about the present or the past? (The past) What two letters are at the end of all the verbs? (-ed)
- Explain that these verbs refer to completed actions and events in the past. You can add that they are examples of the past simple tense and that these verbs are regular: to form the past simple affirmative, we add -ed to the verb. To form the past simple negative, we use didn’t and the verb without -ed.
- Point out that the form of the past simple is the same for all subject pronouns. Then explain the spelling rules.

5 Complete the sentences. Use the past simple. Then match the sentences with the names.

- Students complete the sentences using the past simple. Then they match the sentences with the names.

Saturday 26th. I was in a zoo. Suddenly there was a noise behind me. I looked round and saw a tiger. I started running. There was a bridge in front of me. I ran towards it, but I didn’t see a big hole and fell into it. That’s when the tiger spoke, ‘Can I help you?’ it said.

Sunday 27th. My bed was on the sea, and there were flowers in the water. I saw a pirate ship. There was a ladder on the side. I climbed it. There weren’t any people on the ship, but I saw a treasure chest. It was full of jewellery. Suddenly there were pirates around me. I was frightened, but they smiled and sang ‘Happy Birthday’.

Monday 28th. My alarm clock rang. I got up, but I wasn’t in my bedroom. I was at school, alone in my classroom. But then I saw my teacher. She had a piece of paper in her hand. ‘Your exam,’ she said. I went to my desk and wrote my name at the top. Then my teacher said ‘Stop writing!’ Suddenly the bell rang and I woke up.

J: Hi, Martin.
M: Hi, Jane.
J: What did you do at the weekend?
M: Nothing special. I stayed at home on Saturday morning. That was all right. Then in the afternoon I met Sam and Justin.
J: Where did you go?
M: We went to the shopping centre.
J: That was boring.
M: No, it wasn’t. It was fun. I saw this fantastic shirt.
J: Oh. Did you buy it?
M: No, I didn’t. But I bought a DVD. Then in the evening we went to the Robbie Williams concert.
J: Really? I went to the concert too.
M: No way. Who did you go with?
J: Laura. Her boyfriend didn’t go so she gave me his ticket.
M: What did you think of it?
J: I thought it was amazing. What about you?
M: I thought it was... OK.
J: Oh. What did you do on Sunday?
M: We went skateboarding. That was cool. Then we ate a pizza and watched the DVD. What about you?
J: I got up late. Then I studied for today’s History test.
M: That’s awful!
J: Not really. I think History’s interesting.

Answers

Students’ own answers

Write two true sentences about your last weekend, and another one that isn’t true.

- Demonstrate this activity by writing three sentences on the board about what you did last weekend. Two of the sentences should be true and the other one should be false. Explain that students have to ask you questions to discover which of the sentences is false. They can ask a maximum of 15 questions. Answer their questions, inventing convincing details for the false fact. Can the students identify the false sentence?
- Students write two sentences about what they did last weekend and a third sentence that isn’t true.

In pairs, talk about your last weekend and ask questions. Try to guess your partner’s false information.

- In pairs, students talk about their last weekends and ask questions in order to guess the false information. Encourage pairs to use the sentences they prepared in exercise 9. Draw attention to the example dialogue which may help them ask questions properly.

4. 2.36 Dan and Vicki are talking about their bedroom rules. Which of the rules in exercise 1 do they have?
   - Tell students they are going to listen to a conversation between Dan and Vicki. They are talking about their bedroom rules. Explain that Vicki is visiting Dan's house and she sees a list of rules on his bedroom door.
   - Students listen and write the rules that Dan and Vicki have. Emphasise that they don't need to write complete sentences. They can simply write the numbers of the rules in exercise 1.
   - With weaker students, play the CD twice. The first time, students write Dan's rules. The second time, they write Vicki's rules.
Transcript

V - Vicki   D – Dan

V: Hey, what’s this on the door?
D: Those are my bedroom rules.
V: Wow! What do they say?
D: Rule number one: people must knock before they come in. I hate it when people walk in.
V: That’s a good rule.
D: And my second rule is that my brother mustn’t take my things, especially my CDs. He always takes them and he never puts them back. Rule number three: if you take things, put them back.
V: I know what you mean. My sister loves trying on my clothes. I tell her that she mustn’t try on my clothes, but she never listens. And I don’t like it when she uses my computer. She knows that she mustn’t use my computer, but she sometimes does.
D: Right. Rule number four is that my mum mustn’t look in my school bag.
V: My mum can look in my school bag, but she mustn’t touch things in my room.
D: Oh, and my other rule is that the cat mustn’t disturb me in the morning. He always wakes me up at 5 o’clock. It drives me mad!
V: And tell me how does the cat read that rule?
D: Very funny!

1 In Vietnam people don’t celebrate on the day when they were born. They celebrate their birthday on “Tet” (New Year’s Day). Babies are one year old on their first Tet. Children get some money as a present.

2 The evening before your birthday, people in Denmark put a flag outside your house. When you’re sleeping, family members put presents around your bed. When you wake up on your birthday, you can open the presents.

3 In Mexico people put sweets in a paper animal – the ‘piñata’. This hangs from the ceiling. First you must cover your eyes. Next you must hit the piñata with a stick. When it breaks, you can eat the sweets.

4 In England people give you the ‘bumps’. They take your hands and feet and lift you in the air. They must give you one bump for every year, and one for luck. So on your thirteenth birthday, you get fourteen bumps.

We arrived on Tuesday night and took a bus from the airport to our hotel near Discovery Bay. I didn't sleep well because I was very excited. The next morning, we went to James Bond Beach. The author Ian Fleming wrote some of the James Bond books here. In the afternoon, we visited Dolphin Cove in Ocho Rios. There were lots of dolphins and a shark too. Sal swam with the dolphins. She said it was amazing. In the evening, we ate some typical Jamaican food. It was delicious. The next morning, we woke up very early and left Discovery Bay to go to the Blue Mountains. From the highest point we could see Cuba. It was so cool. On the way, we saw a coffee plantation and I bought some Blue Mountain coffee.

Sa: I don’t know. Maybe you’re right. Excuse me. How much is this T-shirt?
St: It’s 2,000 Jamaican dollars.
Sa: Wow! That’s expensive!
Ju: Not really. It’s about 20 euros.
Sa: OK. I’ll take it. These street markets are great. Here you are.
St: Thanks.
Ja: So what do you think of the trip so far, Sal?
Sa: Boring! No, I’m only joking. It’s fantastic!
Ju: Why?
Ja: Because we’re going to visit Kingston
Sa: And then we’re going to win the karate championship.
Ja: The karate is in the afternoon. What are we going to do in the morning?
Sa: Why don’t we go to another street market?
Ja: That’s a terrible idea. Let’s go to the Bob Marley Museum. I want to buy a CD for my parents.
Ju: Don’t panic, Justin! You can take my alarm dock.
Ja: We aren’t going to be late. And we’re going to win!

Heading Forward is a dynamic four-level teenage course, plus a Starter level which thoroughly integrates training in the four micro skills with vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation practice, and the development of 21st century skills. Language is presented through appealing topics for teenagers. The presentation stage is followed by contextualised and controlled practice that gradually develops into more personalised and freer activities.
